Prefatory Note

We have translated all German words appearing in the Text and Accession List. All abbreviations, unless they are standard military abbreviations, will be found in the revised edition of the "C.I. Handbook Germany", EDS, CI, G-2, SHAEF, April 1945.

At times the text of the following pages will seem incoherent; thoughts are begun and not concluded, and it might appear that we have omitted something. However, such incoherence and seeming omissions are characteristically HIMMLER's, for from the grammatical and professional points of view he was a notoriously poor public speaker. Faulty grammar, endless appositions, and unrelated interpolations mar the text of his speeches. In presenting the following translations of these documents and speeches, we have attempted to retain as much of the true nature and flavor of the original as possible. We have attempted to accomplish the twofold purpose of presenting both what HIMMLER said and how he said it.

Introduction

The Personal Staff of the Reichsführer SS (Persönlicher Stab des Reichsführer SS - abbreviated Pers. Stab RFSS) occupied a unique position in the supreme direction of the SS. It consisted, in fact, of HIMMLER's personal working staff, around which was clustered a number of independent and unconnected offices. It was at all times the chief executive Hqs. of the SS, representing the personal authority of the RFSS and providing the channel for transmission of his orders to all authorities under his command. In time the Pers. Stab RFSS acquired extraneous and miscellaneous powers and duties, and the need for a small, unified Hqs. for the RFSS became greater. Hence, the Operational Hqs. of the RFSS (Feldkommandostelle RFSS - abbreviated Feldkdstelle RFSS) was formed, for the most part as a wartime measure. This was HIMMLER's actual field Hqs., composed of a relatively small, homogeneous staff. The main Hqs. of the Pers. Stab were in Berlin, S.W. 11, Prinz Albrecht Strasse 8.

Besides this there was a number of smaller Hqs. scattered through Germany. One of these smaller Hqs. (Feldkdstelle BERGWALD), was located at Aigen, a suburb of Salzburg, Austria, where HIMMLER has a villa, villa Trapp, and where he stayed when HITLER was at Berchtesgaden. A short time before the fall of Germany all the documents from this villa were removed to a salt mine near Hallein, about twelve miles south of Salzburg. These documents are now in our possession.

From the first it was clear that these documents were of an extraordinary nature. A preliminary check revealed the fact that only a small number of them were routine, that most were unique in character. It is our considered opinion that these documents represent the most important contribution to CI information that has or will be gained by exploitation of any set of documents. In addition, their importance transcends the pure CI field to such an extent that scarcely any intelligence agency could fail to benefit to some extent by the information that a thorough and detailed exploitation of these documents will procure.

Although the range and scope of these documents is wide, their immediate interest lies within the field of CI. As such their exploitation is of particular importance to the Office of the Director of Intelligence of Office of Military Government (US). Substantial progress already has been made in their examination from the CI viewpoint. However, to provide coverage for all interested parties, the following methods of exploitation and dissemination have been decided upon:

1. Background information of pure CI interest will be analyzed, evaluated, and published in the form of reports, while fragmentary information will be published largely in the CI "Spotlight".
2. We shall prepare a detailed Accession List, endeavoring to place in this list a very short summary of the contents of each particular document or set of documents. Thus, all agencies will be able to decide what documents contain information which will be of use to them.

When it appears that a particular document is of greater importance, we will give it more space in the Accession List itself or deal with it in the Text of the Accession List. This Text will give either the summary of the information with a few editorial remarks and/or excerpts in the form of translations from the original. In case the importance of the subject warrants it, the whole of the document will be translated.

Introduction (contt)

We have just finished the analysis of the first lot of documents, i.e. the set of files that contains HIMMLER's speeches, notes on conferences (most of them with HITLER), and other miscellaneous matters. It will be noted that we are using three methods of identification for the documents: the number of the book, the number of the file, and the date of the document. We have at our disposal facilities for photostating a limited number of documents, so that if agencies are interested in one or more copies of a particular document, we could forward to them several photostatic copies for further study. Also the originals will be available for study and exploitation at this office.

EXCERPTS AND EXTRACTS
(TEXT)

1. Nazis Plan Russia's Future

(Book 1 File 6: -.7.41)

Editor's Note:

In July 1941, when Germany was riding the crest of victory in her campaign against Russia, a conference took place at the HQ of the Führer. The purpose of the conference was to decide the future of Russia and her people. HIMMLER was present, took notes - or had someone take them for him - of the conference proceedings. The translation of these notes follows:

Supreme Headquarters of the Führer, 16 July 1941
Bo/Fu.

Top Secret (Of National Importance)

Memorandum

At 1500 today a conference was held by order of the Führer at his place. Reichsleiter ROSENBERG, Reichsminister LAMMERS, Feldmarschall KEITEL, the Reichsmarschall, and I were present.

The conference started at 1500 and lasted with an interruption for coffee until around 2000.

In the introduction the Führer stated that first of all he would like to reach some basic conclusions. Various measures are now imperative. How true that is can be seen from an article in an impudent Vichy newspaper. The article stated that the war against the Soviet Union is Europe's war and that it should be conducted on behalf of the whole of Europe. Evidently, the insinuations of this Vichy newspaper are aimed to prove that not only the Germans are to derive profits from this war, but that all European nations should share in these profits.

It is important, therefore, that we do not divulge our aims to the whole world. This is not necessary so long as we ourselves know what we want. Under no circumstances should our path be made more difficult by unnecessary declarations. Such declarations are not needed because what is within our power we can achieve anyway, and what lies beyond that power, we cannot achieve.

Therefore purely tactical considerations should shape the explanations we give to the world about the steps we have taken. We should proceed the same way we proceeded in the cases of Norway, Denmark, Holland, and Belgium. In these cases we did not say anything about our intentions, and, if we are clever, we will not do it in the future either.

We will, therefore, point out that we were forced to occupy, organize, and secure a territory. In the interest of the inhabitants we had to provide for law and order, food, transportation, etc. That this is a preparation for a final settlement should not be discernible. That should not prevent us from taking all necessary measures, such as shooting, exportation, etc., and we will do that, too.

We don't want to make any people our enemies unnecessarily or too soon. We will act, therefore, as if we wanted to exercise a mandate. We, however, must understand fully that we will never quit these regions. Thus we have to remember the following:

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

1. Nazis Plan Russia's Future (Con't.)

1. We should not do anything to obstruct a final settlement; rather, we should prepare such a settlement secretly;
2. We should emphasize that we bring freedom.

In particular, all foreigners shall be evacuated from the Crimea, which must be settled with Germans. In the same way old Austrian Galicia will become Reich territory. Today our relations with Rumania are cordial, but we don't know what our relations at any given time in the future will be. We must be prepared and must fix our boundaries accordingly. We should not depend on the good will of third powers. Our relations with Rumania should be governed by this principle.

The fundamental problem is to slice up this tremendous cake so that we can (1) rule it, (2) administer it, and (3) exploit it.

Now, the Russians have issued an order to initiate partisan warfare behind our lines. This partisan warfare has its advantages for us. It gives us the possibility to exterminate anybody who opposes us.

The presence of a military power West of the Urals is completely out of the question, even if we must wage war for a hundred years in order to prevent it. All successors of the Führer must realize that the security of the Reich is guaranteed only when no foreign military power exists West of the Urals. Germany must take over the protection of this region from all possible dangers. The iron principle is and shall be; It can never be permitted that any other nation carry arms, other than the German Reich!

This is tremendously important and must be carried out despite the fact that at present it seems easier to rely on the armed help of foreign, subjected nations. This is wrong policy; and inevitably it will turn against us. Only the German should bear arms, not the Slav, the Czech, the Cossack, nor the Ukrainian.

Under no circumstances are we to conduct an inconsistent policy, as we did in Alsace prior to 1918. The greatest quality of the Englishman is his constant pursuit of one policy, of one aim. In this respect we must learn from the Englishman. We cannot let individual personalities shape our attitude. Also in this respect the English attitude in India toward the Hindu princes, etc. should serve us as an example: the soldier must always provide security for the regime.

We must create a Garden of Eden out of the newly acquired Eastern regions. They are of vital importance to us. Colonies are of a secondary importance comparatively. Even if we partition some parts of the territory now, we should always proceed as protectors of law and of the populations. Therefore, we must choose the expedient wording at present. We shall not speak about a new Reich territory but, rather, about a task made necessary by war.

In the Baltic the territory stretching to the Duna should be incorporated administratively after more specific consultation with Field Marshall KEITEL.

Reichsleiter ROSENBERG points out that in his opinion a different treatment of the population is necessary in every Commissariat. In the Ukraine we should initiate a cultural program. The historical self-consciousness of the Ukrainians is to be awakened, a university founded in Kiev, etc.

In return the Reichsmarschall declares that in the first place we must think about guaranteeing our food supplies; everything else can come much later.

(Footnote: Is there a cultural social strata in the Ukrain, or are better class Ukrainians only outside present-day Russia as emigrants?)

ROSENBERG continues that it is necessary to foster some autonomous movements in the Ukraine.

The Reichsmarschall asks the Führer to announce what territory or territories have been promised to other states.

The Führer replies that ANTONESCU wants Bessarabia and Odessa in addition to a strip leading from Odessa West-Northwest.

To the objection of the Reichsmarschall and ROSENBERG, the Führer remarks that the new frontier requested by ANTONESCU only slightly exceeds the old Rumanian frontier.

Further, the Führer points out that nothing definite has been promised to the Hungarians, Turks, or Slovaks.

Then the Führer submits it to discussion to decide whether the old Austrian part of Galicia should be immediately annexed to the General Government. After various objections the Führer decides that it should not come under the General Government but should be put under the jurisdiction of Reichsminister FRANK at Lemberg (Lwow).

The Reichsmarschall believes that various parts of the Baltic region, i.e. the Forests of Byalystok, should be annexed to East Prussia.

The Führer emphasizes that the whole Baltic should become Reich territory.

Likewise, the Crimea, together with a considerable hinterland, should become Reich territory. This hinterland should be very extensive.

ROSENBERG objects to this because of the Ukrainians living in that territory.

(Remark: Several times now ROSENBERG has shown great interest for the Ukrainians; he also wants to expand the old Ukraine considerably.)

The Führer points out in addition, that the Volga Colony and the region around Baku must also become German territory. It should become a German Military Colony.

The Finns want East Karelia, but the Kola peninsula should come to Germany on account of the great nickel deposits there.

Preparations should be made with great care to annex Finland as a Federate State. The Finns demand the region around Leningrad. The Führer intends to level the city to the ground and then give it to the Finns.

A somewhat lengthy discussion follows about the capability of Gauleiter LOHSE, who is recommended by ROSENBERG as Governor of the Baltic. ROSENBERG points out repeatedly that he already spoke to LOHSE, and it would be very embarrassing if LOHSE were not appointed. The western part of the Baltic should go to KUBE under LOHSE. ROSENBERG thought of SAUCKEL for the Ukraine.

In opposition the Reichsmarschall emphasizes that the most important point of view, which should govern us exclusively at the time, is the securing of the food supply and, as necessity demands, the whole economy, roads, etc.

The Reichsmarschall claims that KOCH should be considered either for the Baltic, because of his good knowledge of that territory, or the Ukraine, as he would certainly be the best administrator, possessing the greatest initiative and best background.

The Führer asked if KUBE could not be considered as Commissioner for the Moscow region; ROSENBERG and the Reichsmarschall are of the opinion that KUBE has become too old for that.

~~DECLASSIFIED~~

DECLASSIFIED

1. Nazis Plan Russia's Future (Con't.)

After repeated suggestions ROSENBERG declared that he is afraid KOCH would soon refuse to carry out his directives. KOCH has already said so himself.

The Reichsmarschall replied that ROSENBERG should not always lead these men by the nose; these men will have to work very independently.

For the Caucasian region ROSENBERG recommends his Stabsleiter, SCHICKEDANZ; he repeatedly emphasized that SCHICKEDANZ would fulfill his task very well, but the Reichsmarschall has his doubts.

ROSENBERG then declared that LUTZE made the proposition to him to install various SA-Führer; namely, SCHEPPMANN in Kiev, MANTHEY, Dr. BENNECKE, and LITZMANN in Estonia, and Bürgermeister Dr. DREXLER in Latvia.

The Führer has no objection against the use of the SA-Führer.

ROSENBERG then declares that he received a letter from RIBBENTROP in which he expressed the wish to have the Foreign Office brought into the picture also. He, however, requests the Führer to state that the inner development of the new territories does not concern the Foreign Office. This view is entirely shared by the Führer. It is sufficient for the time being that the Foreign Office sends a liaison man to Reichsleiter ROSENBERG.

The Führer declares that the most important region for the next three years will be the Ukraine. Therefore, it will be best if KOCH is sent there. If SAUCKEL is to be used, it would be better to send him to the Baltic.

ROSENBERG states that he would like to use SCHLEER, SELZNER, and MANDERBACH as Commissars in the Moscow District. The Führer wishes that HOLZ be given a position also and that the administration of the Crimea should go to the former Gauleiter, FRAUENFELD.

ROSENBERG also states that he would also like to use Captain von PETERSDORFF as a reward for his services. There is general consternation and disapproval. The Führer and the Reichsmarschall declare that von PETERSDORFF is undoubtedly mentally disturbed.

ROSENBERG also states that the Oberbürgermeister of Stuttgart, STRÖLIN, has been recommended to him. There is no objection against that.

As KUBE is too old for the Moscow District according to the Reichsmarschall and ROSENBERG, KASCHE should take over that district.

(Note to Pg. KLOPPER:

Please request right away the files concerning the proposed organization and the proposed appointments from Dr. MEYER.)

The Reichsmarschall states also he would like to give the Kola peninsula to Gauleiter TERBOVEN for exploitation. The Führer agrees to that.

The Führer declares that for the time being LOHSE should take over the Baltic, if he believes that he is fit for the task, KASCHE should take Moscow, KOCH the Ukraine, FRAUENFELD the Crimea, TERBOVEN Kola, and SCHICKEDANZ the Caucasus.

Then ROSENBERG opened up the question of security for the administration.

The Führer told the Reichsmarschall and the Feldmarschall that he always insisted that the Police Regiments be equipped with armored cars. This is absolutely imperative for the commitment of the police in the new Eastern regions, for with a sufficient number of armored cars a Police Regiment can accomplish much more. Otherwise, the Führer declares that the security forces would be spread very thin. But the Reichsmarschall shall transfer all the training airfields to the new regions and if it would become necessary, even JU 52's could drop bombs in case of revolt. The enormous territories should be pacified as fast as possible. This can best be done by shooting anyone who even has a cross look on his face.

Feldmarschall KEITEL declares that the inhabitants have to be made responsible for their own belongings because it is not possible to post a guard for every barn or every railroad station. The inhabitants should know that anyone who does not act properly will be shot and that they will be made responsible for every offense.

Answering the question of Reichsleiter ROSENBERG, the Führer declared that newspapers shall be re-established, including those in the Ukraine, so as to provide a means to influence the population.

After a pause, the Führer pointed out that we must realize the present day Europe is only a geographic term; in reality Asia extends to our former boundaries.

Then Reichsleiter ROSENBERG explains the organizational set-up, which he has in mind. He does not intend to name a permanent deputy of the Rchskom. in advance, but the most efficient Gen.Kom. should take over the representation of the Rchskom. at all times.

ROSENBERG wants to create four departments of the Rchskom.

1. General Administration
2. Political Department
3. Economic Department
4. Technic and Construction

(Remark: The Führer states that Church activities are out of the question. PAPEN has sent him a long memorandum through the Foreign Office in which it is stated that this is the appropriate moment to re-establish the Churches. But this is completely out of the question.)

The Reichsmarschall will attach Min.Dir. SCHLOTTERER and RIECKE to the ROSENBERG office.

Reichsleiter ROSENBERG makes a request for a suitable office building. He asks that the Soviet Trade building in the Lietzenburgerstrasse be given to him, even though the Foreign Office is of the opinion that this building is extra-territorial. The Führer replies that this is nonsense. Reichsminister Dr. LAMMERS is told to inform the Foreign Office that the building should be handed to ROSENBERG without further discussion.

ROSENBERG then makes the proposition to appoint a liaison man to the Führer. This task should fall on his adjutant, KOEPPEN. The Führer agrees to that and declares that KOEPPEN should take over the parallel function to HEWEL.

Reichsminister Dr. LAMMERS then reads the plans he drew up. (See appendix)

A lengthy discussion follows about the competence of the RFSS. Evidently all participants also keep the competence of the Reichsmarschall in mind at the same time. The Führer and the Reichsmarschall repeatedly point out that HIMMLER should not have a different sphere of jurisdiction from what he has in the Reich, but that that one is absolutely necessary.

The Führer says repeatedly that in practice the differences will rapidly disappear. He refers to the excellent co-operation between the Army and the Air Force on the front. In conclusion, it is decided that the Baltic should be named Ostland.

The SS As A Criminal Organization

Editor's Note:

We have been approached by the War Crimes Commission with the request of helping them to establish the fact that the SS is a criminal organization. Only basic rules and regulations applying to the whole organization could be of any use in this connection. We do not have any knowledge of any basic SS rules or regulations that could help to establish the only too well-known fact that the SS was a criminal organization; however, we have discovered a number of passages in HIMMLER's speeches to the SS, giving such general statements and rules. We hope that these speeches will present a considerable contribution in the determination of the fate of the Allgemeine-SS.

2. SS Self-Sacrifice, Slave Labor

(Book 12 File 3: Excerpts from HIMMLER's address to the Offizierskorps der Leibstandarte-SS Adolf HITLER (Officer Corps of the 1st SS Division) on the evening of the "Day of Metz" (Receipt of the Historical Nazi Flag -1940?):

"Many thoughts came to my mind today as I watched the Sicherheitspolizei, ably assisted by your men, bringing out these people. The same thing happened in Poland in weather 40 degrees below zero, where we had to haul away thousands, ten thousands, hundred thousands; where we had to have the strength - you should hear this but also forget it immediately - to shoot thousands of leading Poles, where we had to have the strength, otherwise it would have taken revenge on us later.

"It is easier in many cases to go into combat with a company than it is to suppress a resisting, uncivilized population with a company; easier, too, than to make executions, haul away people, evict crying and hysterical women, or return our German brethren across the border from Russia to take care of them. I want to tell you: We have to begin in the Waffen-SS to realize that the activities of the Allgemeine-SS and the police, the work of the man in green uniform, is just as valuable as yours. You must consider the activity of the SD man or of the man of the SIPO as a part of our whole activity, which is just as essential to our existence as that of carrying arms. You are to be envied, because if you do something, if one of the troops achieves fame, then one can talk about his being famous and he can be decorated. It is much more difficult - and I don't want to understate your achievements; I would be the last one to do that - but, believe me, it is much more difficult, this silent work, this silent activity, this guarding of our ideology, this necessity of remaining steadfast in the ideals of the SS, this necessity of no compromise is very often very much more difficult.

"You cannot exist without the Allgemeine-SS as the Allgemeine-SS cannot exist without you. The police cannot exist without the SS, but we also cannot exist without this executive branch of the State which is in our hands. The Führerkorps (Officer Corps) cannot exist without the national, political, and educational institutions which we are creating now, but in turn we cannot have a replacement system without contact with the youth. We cannot exist without business enterprises. This is a field which is unknown to most of you because nobody ever talked to you about it. Well, let me tell you a few things. The house building program, which is the prerequisite of a healthy, social basis of the Gesamt-SS (Combined SS) and the Führerkorps, this house building program cannot be imagined if I would not get the money from some place. Nobody gives me the money as a gift; it has to be earned, and it is being earned by putting to positive work the scum of humanity, the jailbirds, and the habitual criminals. The man who guards these prisoners has a heavy duty, just as the man who goes through close order drill. The men who have this sort of duty 3 or 4 months..... In peace time I shall form guard battalions which shall serve for three months. If the officers organize it the way it should be done, then it will not be just a boring guard duty, but it will also teach the men to fight against these sub-humans and members of inferior races. This activity is necessary, as I told you before, (1) to cleanse these negative men from the German people, (2) to put them to work to break stones and burn bricks so that the Führer can rebuild his big buildings, and (3) so that the money which we modestly earn with this can be turned again into houses, into ground and land, and into settlements, so that our men and officers can live, that they have houses in which they can have big families and many children. This in turn is also very necessary, for if this good blood in Germany with which we stand or die does not increase, we will never be able to rule the world. It should be clear to you that otherwise we would not be able to hold the great Germanic Reich that is just being created now. I have the conviction that we can hold it, but we have to fulfill its conditions."

3. SS Ideals

(Book 16 File 13 Page 22: 4.10.43, From HIMMLER's speech at the SS-Gruppenführer meeting in Posen)

"It is basically wrong when we implant our whole harmless soul and spirit, our good-heartedness, and our idealism into foreign peoples. This applies to HERDER who wrote Stimmen der Völker (Voices of Nations), evidently in a state of drunkenness, with which he brought upon us, upon his descendants, such immeasurable sorrow and misery. This applies to the Czechs and the Slovenes who obtained their national self-consciousness from us. Alone they were not even capable of that; we had to discover it for them....

"One basic principle has to be the absolute rule for the SS men: We must be honest, decent, loyal and comradely to the members of our own blood and to nobody else. What happens to a Russian, to a Czech does not interest me a bit. We will take the good blood of our type that exists among other nations by kidnapping their children and raising them here with us, if necessary. Whether or not nations live in prosperity or starve to death interests me only as much as we need them as slaves for our Kultur; otherwise it is of no interest to me. Whether or not 10,000 Russian females digging trenches turn over and fall down from exhaustion interests me only as long as the anti-tank ditch for Germany gets finished. We shall never be rough and heartless when it is not necessary, this is clear. We Germans, who are the only people in the world who have a decent attitude towards an animal, we shall also have a decent attitude towards these human animals. But it is a crime against men of our own blood that we should worry about them and carry ideals to them, so that our sons and grandsons should have it more difficult. When somebody comes to me and says, 'I cannot build the anti-tank ditch with women and children,' and that 'It is inhuman because they die from it', then I have to say, 'You are a murderer of your own blood because if the anti-tank ditch is not built, then German soldiers will die, and they are sons of German mothers. They are our blood'. The holy law of the future is: Our concern, our duty is towards people of our own blood. We have to care for them and think of them; we have to work and fight for them and for nobody else. Everything else we can consider as of no importance to us. This is what I want to inculcate into these SS men, and I believe I have already succeeded. I wish that the SS bear this attitude in mind when facing the problem of all foreigners, non-Germanic peoples, especially Russians. Every other attitude is soap-bubbles, fraud against our own nation, and impediment to the early winning of the war."

4. HITLER On Natural Selection

(Book 15 File 12: 16.9.42, Excerpts from HITLER's speech before assembled SS and Polizeiführer called together by "PRÜTZMAN in his capacity as HSSPf for Russland-Sud.)

"The really stupid little man is not dangerous if he doesn't have a leader. Therefore, the following thought should be imperative for you: Whenever you find good blood, you have to win it over for Germany or you have to take care that it should cease to exist. Under no circumstances can it live if it stands on the side of our opponents....

"....From all these peoples we have in front of our eyes, from all this hodgepodge of Poles, Ukrainians, White-Russians, etc., we will take over every distilled pure blood-drop and, if it cannot be taken over, it will be extinguished....

"....Slowly we are getting down to a fine selection. I figure to bring a couple hundred thousand children to Germany, some with their mothers, some without, and to bring them up from the age of 6 months or 1 year in the NSV homes. This same applies to all other children and men of good blood. You don't have to start with that now. But you have to keep your eye on it and look around now....

"....We have to stick to the following outline: We are not to bring civilization to this nation (Russia). I can repeat to you only word for word what the Führer wants. It is enough (1) if children in schools learn the traffic signs so that they don't run into our cars, (2) if they learn the multiplication table up to 25 (5 x 5) and can count that far, and (3) if they learn how to write their names. No more is necessary."

(Book 1 File 19: Extracts from a document signed by BORMANN dealing with some observations made by the Führer, 2.5.44)

The first 7 articles deal with statistics of birth, the need for children, the desire that all women have as many children as possible.

8. "In many cases there exists a possibility that young girls and young women who can't get married will conceive children from beloved men. If we consider that in the past as well as the present our soldiers give their lives for our people, than it is self-evident that we rejoice and welcome children from as many worthy women as possible."

9. "To refuse such women would not only be most stupid but the point of view of a Pharisee. In most cases, these illegitimate children are real favorites of Fortune. Besides, a great number of the most famous men were born illegitimately."

10. "To indicate how narrow-minded we consider the refusal of illegitimate children, I have ordered the same financial assistance we pay married women to all women co-workers who bear such children. The birth of an illegitimate child shall not mean punishment but good luck, and therefore continuous assistance will be granted aside from a single payment at the time of birth."

11. "Financial aid is not sufficient, however. We must demand that all Volksgenossen (Countrymen), and especially married women, show all consideration and tact to those women who presented our people with illegitimate children."

6. HIMMLER's Orders To The Gendarmerie

(Book 15 File 10: Speech by HIMMLER at the occasion of a meeting of the Kommandeure der Gendarmerie, 17 Jan 1941)

HIMMLER outlines history of the Gendarmerie, praises the Austrian Gendarmerie and its traditions, explains the meaning of the word "Gendarm" (Man of Arms), and emphasizes the importance of exercising their authority and supporting each one of their own men, especially in occupied territories.

He continues:

"Now we have the opportunity to rule foreign nations with a few people. We will never accomplish this by judicial administrative methods. With this system the masses will always outweigh us. We can only accomplish this by a soldierly tactic....If you dismiss the first 20 cases by executions there will not be another hundred following. I will back each Commander who rules with an iron hand."

He continues with a pep-talk, saying they must carry out many additional duties, due to the fact that many of their ranks have been drafted by the Army. He boasts about the certain victory which is theirs, since only England needs to be subdued. The next problem then would be the return of Germany's colonies. He reminds them of the strenuous problems ahead and what is expected of the German policeman. First he must be German, have the German ideals, and be a German National Socialist. Second, he must be a soldier, and third, he must be a civil servant. He states that though Gendarms shouldn't concern themselves with politics and everyday political questions, at the same time there should be present a desire to promote German National Socialism. He ends the speech by intimating better living conditions for them after the war but does not promise anything concretely.

7. Aftermath To The Purge Of 30 June 1934

(Book 1 File 1: 2 reports on the conference of leading SS men in the Hotel Monopol, Breslau, Aug. 12th, 1934; 1 summary, written by SS-Gruf. WITTJE; 1 conclusion, written by SS-Gruf. WITTJE)

Those present at the confernece included: SS-Gruf. WITTJE, SS-Gruf. von WOYRSCH, SS-Obf. MAACK, SS-Brigf. HILDEBRAND, SS-Obf. BERKELMANN, SS-Stubaf. DUNKERN, SS-Stuf. MÜLLER, SS-Hstuf. WITTRIN, SS-Ostuf. RICHTER, SS-Stuf. von BERLIN. Subject: Investigation of the shooting of 4 Jews and 2 Communists in Silesia, SD-Abschnitt XXI. (von WITTJE had been sent from Berlin to investigate.)

In connection with the purge of 30 June, 1934, SS men liquidated 4 Jews and 2 Communists in Silesia. During a meeting of the Reichstag on 13 July, HIMMLER informed v. WOYRSCH that the names of these 6 victims had been added to the lists comprising those who had been killed during the purge. These lists had been sanctioned by HITLER himself. Accordingly, WOYRSCH passed this information to his Abschnittführer (Regional CO of SS), who in turn sent it down to the lower units. As far as WOYRSCH was concerned, this was a finished case for the SS. He thought and said that no court and no judge had any further business to investigate the case, a view quite justified by cooperation of SS, judiciary, and Reichswehr referred to later in this text.

However, the two cases in question became very complicated. Informed that the names of the 6 victims had again been taken off the list, the judiciary in Silesia consequently had to arrest and prosecute the murderers. Such arrests, according to HIMMLER, were only made to cover up before foreign countries. These arrests put several leaders of the SS in a very unpleasant position. Their subordinates, instead of being promoted as promised, found themselves in jail expecting prosecution and, of course, felt that their leaders had let them down. Tension caused by the arrest of the SS men was further heightened by a telephone call from WOYRSCH to LdsGR KRAMER. To bring more weight to his demand for the release of these men immediately, WOYRSCH threatened a terrific explosion unless the men were set free. Though he later denied this particular remark, WOYRSCH did not remember just exactly what he had said over the telephone.

This threat, together with several other remarks by WOYRSCH, caused the judiciary to take preventive measures in cooperation with the Reichswehr to protect personalities and maintain peace in Silesia. The commanding officer of the 2nd Cavalry Div., Gen. v. KLEIST, immediately called to ask police for protection of a certain arsenal, the location of which was known to the SS, because it was from this Reichswehr arsenal that SS men received weapons for the purge of 30 June.

Meanwhile unrest in Silesia grew, and tension between the SS and the opposition became so strong that SS-Gruf. WITTJE was ordered to investigate. He called a conference of several Führer in Breslau to get a clear picture of all events leading to this situation. Several pertinent facts were uncovered:

- a. The Reichswehr not only supplied the SS with weapons, but worked hand in hand with them during, and probably prior to, the putsch of 30 June.
- b. According to O.Präs BRÜCKNER, the judiciary had covered SA crimes for the last two years; SS-Stubaf. DUNKERN alleged Generalstaatsanwalt (Chief public prosecutor) SCHAEFFER had worked in close cooperation with SS-Stuf. MÜLLER, even illegally; according to evidence gained from the conference in Breslau, all the judiciary had orders not to arrest or prosecute SS men who murdered those later sanctioned on the lists.

- c. During the first conference in which the purge was planned, it was demanded that the SD submit lists of such people slated for death or arrest during the action. These lists were then checked with special marks by the SD, Chemnitz, indicating the type of treatment for each case. Lists for SD Abschnitt VI were sanctioned, while those for SD Abschnitt XXI were not. However, the latter didn't particularly ask for approval. Chain of command went from Abschnitt XXI to Chemnitz and from there to Berlin. When the purge started, Chemnitz constantly called for a report confirming execution of orders. SS-Staf. HIMPE and SS-Stubaf. SKARABES knew only about orders to kill Schweinehunde (S.O.E.). Therefore, they acted solely on orders when they instigated the murder of the 4 Jews and 2 Communists. Staatsanwaltschaft (State Prosecution) claimed the bodies of the 4 Jews and 2 Communists had also been robbed by the SS men responsible for the killing, a fact vigorously denied by the SS. SS-Brigf. HILDEBRAND protested that there could be no justification whatsoever to proceed against men who did nothing but obey orders.
Note: Not only those actually having committed the crimes, but all their superiors are fully responsible for murder.

SS-Gruf. WITTJE, while going through all the evidence, makes the following statement:

"For the sake of authority and faith in the SS, everything must be done to protect and cover these men.....I see no other way but to have the Führer himself order cancellation of this case. I do believe the Führer will fully support those men when he learns that they have acted solely on orders."

He closes the conference with the following words:

"Actions in this case are based on orders. Right or wrong is not the point. I believe these men should not have to stand before an investigative judge. The men who have caused this stink against the SS, these men should be taken to account and suffer the consequences."

8. HIMMLER's Order On Removal Of All Inhabitants From The North Ukraine And Middle Russia.

(Book 6 File 31: "Reichsführer Befehle", 10.7.43)

1. The Führer has decreed that all the population in the territories of the North Ukraine and of Middle Russia are to be evacuated.
2. All men capable of work are to be assigned to the Reich Commissioner for the Arbeitseinsatz (Allocation of Labor) in accordance with orders to be published; they are to be treated as prisoners of war.
3. All women are to be assigned to the Reich Commissioner for the Arbeitseinsatz and will be used for works projects in the Reich.
4. Part of the women and the orphans will be sent to our Auffangslager (reception camps).
5. In cooperation with the Reichsernährungsminister (Minister of Food) and the Minister for the occupied Eastern Territories, the HSSPF will take over management of these evacuated territories. Cultivation of Kok-Sagys (Rubber Producing Plants) and, as far as possible, agricultural projects are to be planned. Children's camps are to be located along the boundaries of these territories, keeping these children as laborers at our disposal.

Final plans are to be submitted to me as soon as possible."

9. HITLER Laments

(Book 1 File 24: Digest of a conference at the Wolfschanze, 31 July, 1944. Present: HITLER, JODL, FEGELEIN, VARLEMONT, etc. Conference lasted from 2353 to 0058.)

HITLER speaks for an hour, only rarely interrupted or answered by JODL and FEGELEIN. The war situation is HITLER's concern: the Eastern Front has to be established; the shortened sphere of operations there is by no means a disadvantage. In Italy HITLER would not stay at the Appenian Front, yet he wants to continue to hold down as many enemy forces as possible. On the West Front if France is lost, the starting point of the U-boat campaign is lost with it. Only superiority in the air can improve the situation in France. HITLER fears most a Russian break-through and the threat to the homeland, but he believes it can be averted. Some of HITLER's remarks prove the success of the psychological warfare used by the Russians and also show fear of spies in his own ranks.

He next touches the Balkan countries with rather general references to Turkey, Bulgaria, and Hungary. In connection with the latter he fears a coup d'etat by HORTHY. HITLER also fears a landing by the Allies anywhere along the Balkan coastline and thinks it would be catastrophic. However, he counts on disagreements between Russia and England for domination of this area and consequently doubts an invasion at that point.

Moving back armies, new lines of defense, keeping certain ports in France to hold up Allied supply lines, destruction of all territory left to the advancing Allies (including Reich territory) are HITLER's next topics. Always apparent is his distrust of his own army generals, and he even suggests drawing up incoherent plans which mean something only to the few present and a small staff he is about to create. In that connection he again voices his fear of espionage as well as of incapable leaders in his own army. Further, he stresses the importance of a mobile army, trying to make as many units as possible fully mobile.

Some extracts from conversation at the conference:

HITLER: "To call a man like TITO a Marshal is absolutely correct. A man who has practically no materiel at his disposal, who keeps a full enemy force constantly on the alert, and who always recuperates from our blows deserves this title much more so than some of our own Colonel Generals and Field Marshals who could not operate skillfully with the finest machine the world has ever known."

.....

HITLER(in re bomb plot against his life): "Because of my ears I will not be able to go up in a plane for the next eight days. If only one was healed, I would not care and would then risk it. But if I would board a plane in this condition with all the noise and pressure difference it might lead to a catastrophe. And what would happen if I suddenly developed an infection of the ear? I would have to be treated. As long as the wound is open there is danger of infection. This (probably referring to the bomb) did not pass my head without some effect."

FEGELEIN: "Everyone present got a minor concussion of the brain."

HITLER: "Of course, I can stand up all right, even talk for a time, but suddenly I have to sit down. Today I would not dare to address a gathering of 10,000 people. I would not dare to deliver a speech as I did recently at the Obersalzberg; I might get a sudden attack and collapse. Even while walking, there are times when I suddenly must pull myself together. Yet, if all goes wrong, I will do almost anything, of course. I don't care. I will enter a single engined plane as a forward gunner, so that I will get there fast. (?) I don't care at all."

10. OSHIMA And HIMMLER Talk Shop

(Book 7 File 29:)

Editors note:

The following is a translation of HIMMLER's notes on a conversation with the Japanese Ambassador General OSHIMA. Note the frankness with which OSHIMA tells HIMMLER about his activities as head of the Japanese espionage and sabotage organizations against Soviet Russia. (It should be remembered that the Japanese also had an excellent espionage service working in Germany.) Also note the plot against STALIN's life.

"January 1, 1939: Today I visited General OSHIMA. Our conversation dealt with the following topics:

1. A speech by the Führer which the General liked very much, particularly its intellectual foundation.

2. We discussed ratification of the treaty which draws the triangle of Germany, Italy, and Japan even more closely together. He told me further that together with the German Abwehr (Wehrmacht GIS), he is carrying out long-range subversive activities in Russia. The starting point is the Ukraine and the Caucasus. However, this organization will become effective only in case of war.

3. Even better than that, he had been able to smuggle 10 Russians carrying bombs across the Caucasian border. Their orders were to assassinate STALIN. A number of other Russians, also to be smuggled across, were shot at the border.

4. We next discussed the Mohammedan movement. He said a Japanese officer had been working in Afghanistan. However, this officer was expelled because he was suspected of attempting to overthrow the Afghanistan government. I told him I had a police officer there myself, and once he got a new man assigned there, the two of them could work very well together.

5. He told me confidentially he had bought real estate in Falkensee under a false name. Six Russians are employed there, writing and printing pamphlets. When winds are favorable, these pamphlets are sent from Poland to Russia by means of small balloons. He got news and proof that they got to Russia all right and that people eagerly distributed them in the open.

Der Reichsführer-SS:

signed: H. HIMMLER"

11. Random Thoughts

(Book 2 File 37:)

The following are notes on some thoughts of Heinrich HIMMLER. The Reichsführer-SS voiced them on various subjects on different occasions. Evidently on his trips he was accompanied by one of his ardent followers whose main task was to make careful notes on his remarks so as to preserve them for posterity. The ideas of the Reichsführer-SS in the economic, social, and ethnographic fields may seem contrary to the recent trends in these sciences, but nobody can deny that they represent radical solutions.

Notes On Remarks Of The Reichsführer-SS Made On 14 August 1942 After His Trip To Kiev.

"There the Reichsführer-SS visited different museums, the Bacteriological Institute and other institutions, but most important of all, he inspected the Schutzmannschaft (Police) Battalions. He declared at dinner that it became clear to him after the inspection that all men of pure race should be in the first company, so as to separate them from the other men of the Schutzmannschaft. That means that a selection would take place, first on the basis of eyesight, then on the basis of height, and finally on the basis of the actual achievements of the individual under battle conditions. Then, given due time, their general attitude toward women, their chivalrous manner, their respect for private property, their fighting ability, etc. could be taken into consideration."

"The Reichsführer-SS also mentioned that there would be a similar process to the selection which took place during the Kampfzeit (pre-1933 days). At that time only a few were selected and of these few only a few were finally retained."

"The Reichsführer-SS was of the opinion that the manner of acceptance of tips is a good indication of the character of an individual. On that basis you can distinguish for example a man from Schleswig-Holstein from a man in Czechoslovakia. The first would refuse acceptance with indignation, whereas the Czech would take the money with bent back and profuse thanksgiving."

"The Reichsführer-SS said that the social problem can be solved by killing half of the people so as to appropriate their land. The Reichsführer-SS voiced this same belief during the Kampfzeit and later again to RANGALL on his trip to Finland."

"The Reichsführer-SS also remarked that standards should be high. That way one always gets a few good men who stand out above these high standards. That was the case in the meetings during the election campaigns."

"In the Caucasus and the Crimea there are some remnants of the Goths. He wants to bring them out from there and germanize them."

"The Reichsführer-SS branded as idiotic the suggestion to print bibles for the Ukrainians."

"After the war SS-Führer would be sent to all countries to eliminate the good blood by kidnapping the children. The SS-Führer would appear in civilian clothes in the role of a charitable man and would do something good for the children. He would tell them stories about a free land and take them to Germany. Of course, he would do that through an intermediary in Finland to make it inconspicuous. In this way he would attempt to bring back the good blood. If we would succeed to kidnap 1000 men yearly out of France in this manner, the effect would be quite noticeable in due time."

An increase of illegitimate children is to be encouraged by all methods of propaganda, help on part of the State, and by a different moral code. 29.1.44
- 15 Conference between HITLER and QUISLING (LAMMERS and BORMANN also present) in the Führerhauptquartier. Lengthy conversation in re conditions in Norway, with QUISLING trying to persuade HITLER to allow more independent action on part of the Norwegian Ministers. HITLER repeats phrases about the blood paid by the German soldiers, so he can at least expect that other nations help do the work. QUISLING wants to have Europe completely reorganized, and added to the text of their conversation is a document of a European Pact. Europa Bund (European League) is to be formed, at first composed of the Reich and its allies, later to be joined by the remaining European States. This proposed charter consists of 12 articles; its principle seems to be some kind of United States of Europe with Germany in the presiding and dominant position. There is no comment on HITLER's part, at least not attached to this plan, but it is only mentioned that QUISLING submits a copy of what seems to be his own ideas of such a Bund.

this menace, as Russia's population of 200 millions had an annual addition of 2 millions or more. He talks about the Asiatic menace and the possibility of another Ghengis-Khan's sweeping over Europe. To counteract that, HIMMLER intends to win and persuade all racially valuable people over to the German side; all unwilling elements have to be killed. Children of German fathers and Russian mothers are to be mustered and taken to Germany; if their mothers are racially valuable and fit, they are to be sent to the Reich, too. General dissertation about the superiority of the German Race and the danger of intermingling of Aryans with the Slavonic Races. No culture has to be encouraged in the occupied Russian or Ukrainian territories; children have only to be taught the traffic signals, how to write their names, and to count up to 25.
